

as a flight attendant, I think cell phones usage in the air would be very distracting while we give instructions for survival in an emergency. Also, what would it be like for someone to sit next to a person talking loudly or having personal conversations?